Michigan's Sportsmen's Caucus

Senator Sanborn has joined with many of his legislative colleagues to form the Michigan Legislative Sportsmen's Caucus - the primary focus of which is to preserve and protect the traditions of Michigan citizens who hunt, fish and pursue outdoor activities.

"Hunters and fishers are engaging in family activities that have been enjoyed and passed down from generation to generation for hundreds of years in this country," said Sanborn. "That kind of tradition, and the tremendous social and economic impact that it has on our state, is deserving of the protection and respect of our government."

Dear Friend:

With the fall fast approaching, the time of year is at hand when Michigan families begin planning their hunting activities while enjoying the splendor of our Great Lakes state. As your link to state government, I want to share some important information that may be helpful to you, including information on licensing, chronic wasting disease and bovine tb.

I trust you will find this update useful. As always, I welcome your comments and suggestions on ways to preserve Michigan's legendary hunting heritage. In the meantime, I wish you and your family a safe hunting season.

Sincerely,

State Senator

Chronic Wasting Disease

To date, Michigan is free of a serious, neurological disease that has impacted hunting in some neighboring states. Chronic wasting disease (CWD) affects deer and elk. It attacks the animals' nervous system, causing chronic weight loss and eventual death. It is not known to be transmitted to humans, or other animals.

While CWD has not been found in Michigan and the state is taking steps to prevent any occurrence here, hunters should be aware of deer or elk exhibiting signs of a possible CWD infection. Symptoms include: weight loss and behavioral changes such as nervousness, excessive salivation, and loss of fear and coordination. Hunters observing deer with these abnormal signs should contact the RAP line at: 1-800-292-7800. Further information on CWD, including Michigan's surveillance and response plan, is available at both the DNR website: www.michigan.gov/dnr and the Michigan Department of Agriculture website: www.michigan.gov/mda.

Wild Turkey Management

Managing wild turkeys in Michigan involves the complex interactions of turkey populations and their habitat and their relationship to people. Hunting plays an important role in the management of turkeys by regulating their numbers. The goal of the spring wild turkey hunting season is to maximize hunter opportunity while maintaining a satisfactory hunting experience. Limited to gobblers only, this conservative harvest approach has the continued growth and expansion of the wild turkey population in Michigan. Hunting in the fall enables hunters to stabilize or reduce wild turkey numbers in certain areas of the state to meet local goals based on habitat conditions and public attitudes. License quotas are developed to harvest the desired number of turkeys to meet the management goal. To help reach these goals, hunters are encouraged to harvest female turkeys during the fall season.

Hunting License Requirements

To buy a hunting license, a hunter must have a valid Michigan driver license, a valid Michigan ID card and additional proof of residency, or a Michigan DNR Sportcard (issued through a license dealer). In addition, all hunters born on or after January 1, 1960 must also present their Hunter Safety Certificate, previous hunting license or sign their license in the presence of the license dealer.

The DNR also reminds hunters that:

- All licenses must be signed to be valid. Your signature certifies that you meet required residency and hunter safety requirements.
- Licenses and the identification used to purchase that license must be carried at all times when hunting or trapping.
- It is illegal to use another person's hunting license.

For more detailed information on how to obtain a hunting or harvesting license in Michigan, visit the DNR's website at www.michigan.gov/dnr or talk to a license vendor.

2003 Hunting and Trapping Guide Available

For comprehensive information on hunting seasons, regulations, licensing, bag limits and more, check out a copy of the 2003 Michigan Hunting and Trapping Guide. Of special interest, the Guide highlights major regulation changes for the 2003 season, including:

- Ruffed grouse season is open statewide
September 15- November 14 and December 1- January 1, 2004.
- New kill tags.
- Properly licensed legally blind hunters may use a crossbow.
- New regulations pertaining to the importation of deer and elk carcasses into Michigan.
- DMU 045 becomes an experimental Deer Management Unit.
- Squirrel season has been extended (September 15-March 1).

The Guide can be accessed at the Michigan Department of Natural Resources website at: www.michigan.gov/dnr or hard copies are available from more than 1700 license agents statewide.

In addition to the comprehensive 2003 Hunting and Trapping Guide, you can visit the DNR online to access the most widely requested 2003 specialty hunting guides. Go to www.michigan.gov/dnr to find:

How to Spot Bovine TB

Although aggressive steps have been taken to eradicate bovine tuberculosis, it remains a threat to Michigan's deer population. Hunters should be especially careful in closely examining their kill for tuberculosis, and reporting any finding to the Department of Natural Resources.

Of the TB-positive deer found to date, about 40 percent had lesions that would be easily recognized by most hunters. Hunters should check deer for:

- Pea-sized tan or yellow lumps lining the lung tissue.
- Pea-sized tan or yellow lumps on the inside of the ribcage.
- One, or many, lesions that are typical of the disease.

If you observe this type of infection, contact the DNR so the carcass and viscera, in addition to the head, can be examined. Also, hunters taking deer in special TB surveillance areas should turn in the deer's head for free testing whether these signs of infection are present or not.

Senator Sanborn's Office Seeks Constituent E-Mail Addresses

In an effort to keep residents up to date with what is happening in Lansing and keep office costs down due to budget reductions, Senator Sanborn is asking interested constituents to forward their e-mail address to the office to be included in an e-mail legislative update list. Considering the state of the economy, electronic mail is an inexpensive and convenient method to transmit information to those who would be interested in receiving legislative updates. Legislators typically use constituent e-mail addresses for newsletters, weekly updates and to seek input on a variety of issues. Please send your requests to senasanborn@senate.michigan.gov. Type "newsletter" in the subject line.
